

Adela Mei

BUSINESS COACH | ENVIRONMENTALIST | BIKER

Supporting environmental leaders & inspiring impactful work

Adela coaches leaders in the environmental sector, bringing her clients a renewed sense of purpose and determination, and inspires them to continue their critical work.

With her wealth of experience in conservation, biodiversity, and environmental management, she set up her own company Jackdaw Coaching in 2021 to support small businesses grow sustainably, through coaching and mentoring.

Previously working in the corporate world on land management and biodiversity projects, Adela was drawn to international conservation, and co-founded a wildlife monitoring organisation based in Peru. She went on to set up a conservation expedition company, spending the next chapter of her life supporting international wildlife projects in Guatemala.

Her most profound personal achievement is learning to ride a motorbike at 50 which has given her a highly focused mind, positive attitude, and massive confidence.
